What we will cover

- What is Retrieval Practice?
- Retrieval Practice in the classroom
- Examples of pupil work

What is Retrieval Practice?

Retrieval Practice is a learning strategy.

- The act of recalling learned information from memory (with little or no support)
- Every time that information is retrieved, or an answer generated, it changes the original memory to make it stronger.
- Often associated with end of unit assessments but research has shown that building Retrieval Practice into lessons is more effective.

Benefits of Retrieval Practice

- Aids later retention 'every time you retrieve a memory it becomes deeper, stronger and easier to access in the future'
- Identifies gaps in knowledge
- Produces better organisation of knowledge
- Improves students' understanding of their own learning process

Notes
Students write a page of notes on a piece of blank paper on a specifically chosen topic. Focussing on:
1. key vocabulary
2. summarising content
3. using symbols

Graphic Organiser
Students then create a graphic organiser representing the core terminology of the notes.

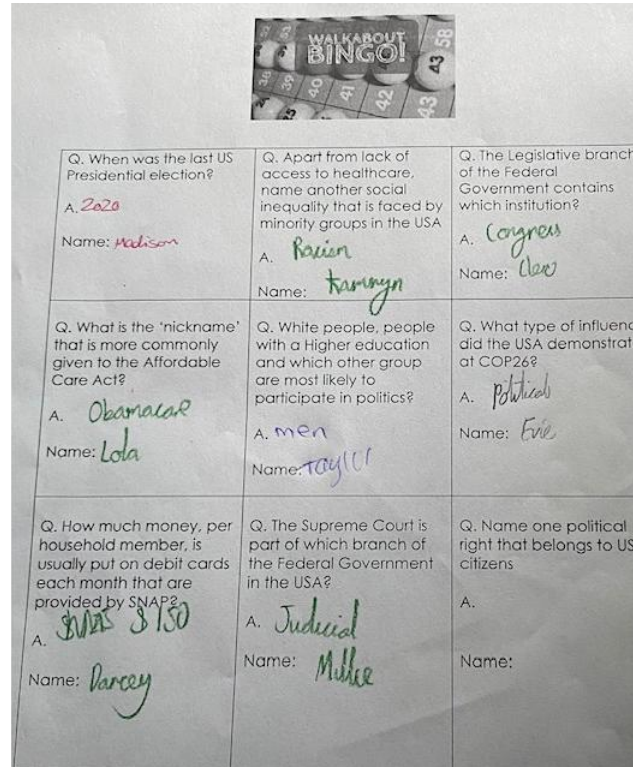

Flashcard
Students write down 5/6 keywords that summarise the topic.

Symbols
Students use the symbols from their original notes.

Samuel Brown

Topic: Bruce's disastrous first year as king

I remember...

- Bruce's legitimacy was limited as his coronation went ahead without important allies and included only limited noble attendance, a reflection of his (lack of) support.
- As a result of his murder of John Comyn, Bruce faced excommunication from the catholic church (a very powerful organisation at the time)
- He captured, militarily defeat at the hands of the English and was forced to flee.
- When he attempted to return, two of his brothers were slain. (Correct)

Peek & Add

- Defeated at Methuen Wood (supporters captured)
- Defeated by allies of Comyn at Dairly
- Many of his family members were forced to surrender at Methuen castle
